

IN THE FALL OF '64

An Extraordinarily Realistic Moving Picture, Showing a Part of the Battle of the Wilderness on the very spot, in just the Way, no doubt, such a Fight occurred 50 years ago, in the Fall of '64. Produced by the Universal Film Manufacturing Co.

Francis Ford

The story in brief is as follows: At a military ball in a southern mansion the Confederate officers are amusing themselves. Captain Ford is the officer in charge and Virginia the young hostess, is his sweetheart. At the height of their fun the sentries outside report the approach of Union soldiers. All officers hurry to their commands. At first the Confederates having less men, attempt to outmatch the Federals. However, after a short time they change their plans and entrench themselves in the surrounding hills. There is a deadly battle. The Federals are driven back to Virginia's estate. Ford is detailed to enter the Union lines and ascertain the strength of the enemy. Once within the lines, he is pursued into Virginia's home. She conceals him under the bed, and when the Union soldiers enter she is found quietly sleeping. The Union men withdraw after she awakens and rebukes them. She follows them and holds their attention while Ford escapes by the window. Virginia, after taking up her abode with the slaves, disguises as an idiotic boy and collects valuable information. Ford is taken and is brought back to her home. When he enters the room she knocks over the lamp. Her lover escapes by the window and she escapades to her room and puts on feminine wearing apparel. The Union officer in command discovers her masquerade, but in the thick of the battle she escapes to the Confederate ranks. The information which Ford and the girl have collected turns the tide of battle, and the Union forces are defeated.

Moved Back From Georgia.
Monroe Pant, who has been making his home in Athens, Ga., for the past year, has disposed of his property there and has moved back to his farm in this county, near Fossilton. Mr. Pant says that he liked Georgia fine but "there's no place like home," and he couldn't stay away any longer. He is receiving a hearty and cordial welcome back to Anderson from his many friends.

Fighting Scrape At Orr Mill.
A row between two young white men at the Orr mill Saturday afternoon came near being fatal for one of the participants, Johnnie Williams. According to the story related to Magistrate Broadwell yesterday, Lloyd Stamps and the Williams boys are employed in the Orr mill. While at work Saturday afternoon the Stamps boy wanted to borrow a box from Williams. Whereupon Stamps is said to have seized a lathe of some sort from a near-by table and struck the Williams lad a severe blow across the head. His head and face suffered serious injury, being badly bruised and lacerated. According to the father of the Williams boy, his son was unconscious for over 12 hours and much alarm was felt for his recovery. Neither of the young men are over 18 years of age.

Two Liquor Cases Yesterday.
Magistrate Broadwell had in his court yesterday only two cases for immediate consideration had in each of these liquor is at the bottom of the trouble. Jim Harley, a white man, yesterday faced a charge of being drunk and disorderly conduct and was given his choice of a fine of $5.00 or 10 days on the gang. He took the days. Ben Tate, a negro, is accused of violation of the liquor laws. He appeared yesterday and gave bond and will shortly be arraigned before Magistrate Broadwell to answer to the charge.

Judges Have Not Decided.
Owing to the fact that the three cases submitted in the Omega watch contest conducted by the Keesee Jewelry company have not yet been able to finish with their examination of the papers submitted, Mr. Keesee yesterday announced that the awarding of the watch would necessarily be postponed for several days. It is hoped that the judges will be able to finish with their canvassing of the papers by next Monday and the award of the watch made at that time. When the fact is taken into consideration that several of the papers submitted contained more than 1,700 words, it is easy to understand why the judges have not been able to complete the work.

Dr. Littlefield Coming Back Here.
Walter H. Keesee yesterday announced that Dr. J. E. Littlefield, an eminent oculist who visited the local jewelry company sometime ago, had made such an impression upon Anderson people that he had succeeded in getting him to return here. Dr. Littlefield will spend a month with the Keesee establishment, arriving here on March 16.

Commercial Men Hold Conference.
The Anderson Chamber of Commerce yesterday received an invitation to send a representative to Washington on April 8, at which time a conference of the commercial bodies of the south will be held. The conference will be devoted entirely to country life and there will be many interesting features on the program, prominent among which is a discussion to be conducted by Harry Hogston of Atlanta. The questions to be discussed will deal with social, agricultural and economical problems of the states south of the Ohio river and east of New Mexico. In all probability some man will go from the local chamber to represent Anderson.

Mr. Unger Back In This City.
F. M. Unger, who left Anderson some weeks ago to go to Columbia, where he accepted the position of manager of that branch of the Columbia Tailoring Co., has returned to Anderson and he says that he is glad to get back "home." Mr. Unger has resumed his duties as manager of the Anderson Branch of the Columbia Tailoring Co., and says that there is no place like "My Town" for him.

Correction In An Advertisement.
In the advertisement of Mrs. J. C. Holliman's millinery parlors ap-bearing in Sunday morning's Intelligencer, it was said that the millinery opening of this popular establishment would take place on Wednesday, March 4. This was an error as the date should have been, Wednesday, March 11. The Intelligencer takes great pleasure in now informing the ladies that this splendid line of millinery will be on display March 11.

Narrow Escape For Print Shop.
The Oulla Printing and Binding Co. located North Main street, was not destroyed by fire last Saturday night but it had a close call. Mr. Oulla upon his arrival at the plant yesterday morning, found that a box of saw dust had been set on fire Saturday night, and had been completely burned up and part of the flooring under the boxes had also been slightly burned. It is presumed that someone carelessly threw a match into the box Saturday night and that it smoldered for sometime before going out.

Body Was Shipped Away.
In response to a telegram received from Mrs. Elmer Bacon of Woodland, Maine, the body of L. M. Jones was interred Sunday and shipped to Fortington, Conn., where it will be placed in the Jones family lot, by the side of his wife who died some years ago. It will be remembered that Mr. Jones died in Anderson last Friday morning and was buried at Silver Brook cemetery Friday afternoon. His daughter was notified of his death, but no response was received from her until after the funeral had taken place.

Negro Has Broken Leg.
A negro named Tom Dawson was brought to the Anderson hospital yesterday afternoon suffering with a broken ankle. It seems that the negro was loading some cotton seed meal at an oil mill in Lowndesville when a bale fell on his leg, breaking the bone. It was said last night that he had sustained no other injuries and would soon be recovered.

Hunting Comes To An End Tomorrow.
Those Anderson men who like to hunt had best get their fill of it during the remainder of this week, because after next Sunday it will be against the law to shoot birds. The general opinion had prevailed that this hunting season for this state came to an end on March 1, but this was not correct and those who are fond of the sport will have until next Sunday that time when any shooting birds will be liable to punishment by the state law. Many of the young sportsmen of Anderson are preparing to take advantage of the few days left them.

EUROPEAN NEWS

London, March 9.—The prospect of a general election seems to be growing and American visitors to England next summer will therefore have a chance to see more than the usual excitement with the opportunity also of comparing the difference between an English and an American campaign. In many sections of the country there is joy over the prospect of a general election while in others the fact is a concern is felt, of course, over the possibility of persons now holding easy positions losing them. It is reported that King George regrets the necessity for an election on account of the changes that it will make in his plans.

The Spanish Ministry of Commerce has ordered plans drawn for a standard gauge railroad with double track from the French frontier to Madrid to insure direct and rapid communication between the Spanish capital and the north.

It is calculated the time occupied by the journey can be reduced from 13 hours to 7 and the journey from 27 1-2 hours by the fastest train, it is believed will be reduced to 20 hours. The new road will also do away with the inconvenience of changing cars at the frontier.

The official gauge of the principal Spanish railroad has hitherto purposely been kept different from that of France.

Prof. Kuttner of Berlin has been studying the causes of appendicitis and his conclusions are very interesting. He says that of the popular fantastic reasons advanced purely fancifully, for instance, from cooking utensils and bits of solder from fruit cans, which are so often blamed for the trouble, are found in an appendix. Neither is metal dust from modern flour milling machinery responsible.

American medical men have blamed the excessive consumption of feed drinks—in Germany the same has been said of beer. In England some physicians have attributed the disease to decayed bits of rubber bands from lemonade bottles; others have ascribed it to the boric acid used in the preservation of canned meats; others again have pointed an accusing finger at popular patent medicines and pills.

Nuts, pineapples, sausages, cheese, mushrooms and lobsters have all been denounced as agents, concludes Prof. Kuttner; likewise, overwork, long school hours, life on board ship, life in the tropics, the period of military service in conscriptional countries and the neglect of walking exercise; but none of these has anything to do with the true cause of appendicitis, which must solely be sought in the individual confirmation of the vermiform appendix and its peculiar functions.

The trousers will have not only one straight crease running up the leg, but will also be adorned at the top with three neat box pleats. Mr. Bryan himself a Bull Moose adherent, said that he believed the espousal of the suffrage cause by the Roosevelt party would in the very near future force the two other parties to take it up.
